Dedication

In appreciation of the many years of faithful service which he has given to Colorado College we, the Class of 1920, dedicate this Nugget to
Prof. R. H. Motten

ROGER HENWOOD MOTTEN, A. M.

CLYDE AUGUSTUS DUNIWAY, PH. D., LL. D.
President of Colorado College.

In Memoriam

ALBERT H. SMITH will long live in the memory of those who knew him, as the highest type of college man. Faithful at all times to his country and to his Alma Mater, he enlisted at the first call in May, 1917, was soon transferred to aviation and within a few months was a member of the Lafayette escadrille. With three German planes to his credit he returned to Colorado College at the close of the war. At once he took an active part in all the College activities and was a leader in the student body. His death, March 30, 1919, created a vacancy in our midst which can never be filled.

Our Sacrifice for Democracy

In the War of the Nations, Colorado College took an active part. With the S. A. T. C. and the Radio school in the College itself rendered very efficient service. But we are most proud of those Tigers who were actively engaged in the soldiering.

The ranks of the students enrolled in the College were almost depleted of men, due to the great numbers who enlisted for that greater service. The Alumni of the institution were also true to their country and the ranks of C. C. men enrolled in the army were exceeded by no other college of equal size.

Lack of space forbids our publishing the complete list of Tiger soldiers, but it is only fitting that we should mention those who gave their lives that we should enjoy the privileges of our free country. Those men, actively enrolled in the college at the time of their enlistment, who paid the supreme price, are as follows:

MARCELLUS H. CHILES, ex '19.

JOHN GABBERT, ex '20.

CARL DITMAR, ex '20.

HOWARD DODSON, ex '22.

CLARENCE POTTER, ex '18.

The Part Played by the Colorado College Alumni in the War

The service rendered by our alumni in the army was second to none. Members of nearly every class enlisted for active service. We regret that lack of space forbids publishing pictures of all those alumni who died in service. The list of those men is as follows:

WILLIAM C. ARGO, '15.
RALPH C. HALL, '15.
LESTER HARTER, ex '16.
ROLAND JACKSON, ex '14.
CLINTON MILLER, '15.
ROY MUNCASTER, ex '15.
JOHN S. SHAW, '13.
GLEN SPENCER, ex '12.
MILFORD TAYLOR, '15.
HARRY WRAY, '14

In Memoriam

MARCELLUS H. CHILES made one of the finest records of the war. He is a model for heroes to follow. He enlisted soon after war was declared and his promotions were rapid. On November 5, 1918, he died from wounds received in a charge against the Germans, in which he displayed such bravery and gallantry that he was awarded, posthumously, the Distinguished Medal Cross by General Pershing, and the Congressional Medal—the highest service honor which any soldier may receive.

"Coming back to the work of this command, I consider it one of the best achievements in a short space of time that I have ever seen in my eight years of service in the regular army. The lieutenants have worked hard and done well; the non-commissioned officers have done wonders and shown commendable zeal; and the privates have shown esprit-de-corps and aptitude for their work that has made me very proud indeed to be your commanding officer.

The result has been that in less than two months you have developed an organizations of which we can all be justly proud. Perhaps the greatest tribute I can pay you men is to say that I would have asked nothing better than to lead the Colorado College Students Army Training Corps upon the battle fields of France.

In farewell, fellow soldiers, your commanding officer salutes you!"

These words spoken on December 6, 1918, by Captain Rudd, marked the close of the military work of Colorado College which began seven months before. In these seven months, 355 men had graduated from the radio school and had landed in France; 200 had just completed their radio work and another 200 had received two months of intense training in the collegiate section of the S. A. T. C.

The military work of Colorado College began in May, 1918, when the first draft detachment of 150 men reported to Captain V. E. Kanally. Lieutenants E. H. McKee, Infantry; A. C. Denman, Infantry; C. M. Collins, Medical Corps; C. W. Russell, Dental Corps; George King, Quartermaster Corps, composed the staff of officers serving with Captain Kanally. Professor Roland R. Tileston was in charge of the technical instruction of this detachment. The sixty-day course included theoretical and practical ground and wireless telegraphy. Infantry instruction occupied two hours daily. The infantry work was the minimum necessary for discipline and exercise.

The college used the gymnasium and locker rooms of Cossitt for barracks. The fumed oak tables of the dining room gave way to the long, bare pine tables of an army mess. The physics lecture room and the laboratories were equipped with elaborate telegraph apparatus. Sub-stations were placed in the Administration building and the San Luis school.

The second detachment of signal corps came on the fifteenth of July, two days after the transfer of the first company to Camp Funston. These men did work similar to that of their predecessors. On September thirteenth, the majority were transferred to Kelly Aviation Field at San Antonio, preparatory to departure for France.

The inspecting officers at both Camp Funston and Kelley Field highly commended the training and discipline of both detachments. Professor Tileston's efficient and intensive course of instruction achieved splendid results. The Radio school at Colorado College was known as one of the best in the United States and to Professor Tileston belong the greater part of the credit. He supplemented the work as outlined by the Government by close personal attention and observation of the best methods for obtaining maximum advancement; and by his skillful use of the excellent laboratories at the college, made the course much more interesting and instructive.

In the early summer the War Department Committee on Education decided to establish the Student's Army Training Corps with three summer camps to provide the immediate training of prospective student instructors, who were to be chosen from the colleges and universities of the country. Lieutenant W. W. Hite and President Duniway chose the following men to be sent to the Presidio, of California, from Colorado College: Franklin R. Little, A. G. Ainsworth, Chester Hart, W. A. Case, Ben Sweet, R. J. Sevitz, Harold Chase, A. Barney, and Edward Taylor of the Faculty. About two weeks later, the C. C. quota was increased and William Copeland, John Canon, Donald McMillan and Thaddeus Holt were recommended to Washington and sent to San Francisco.

The keynote of the work at San Francisco was discipline. Instructions in modern methods of European warfare occupied the second month of the camp. The staff of officers included Frenchmen and Englishmen and many Americans who had returned from the front in France.

Early in September, the War Department decided to commission those men who were qualified, in the S. A. T. C. Training Corps. Seven Colorado College men won their bars. William Copeland and Albert Ainsworth were commissioned in field artillery and transferred to Camp Taylor. The others made infantry commissions, and reported to various colleges as instructors in the S. A. T. C. units. Hart was sent to Denver University; McMillan to Montana Aggies, Cannon to Syracuse, N. Y., Taylor to Colorado College. Little, Holt, Sweet, Sevitz, Chase and Case returned to Colorado College and made their chevrons there.

RETREAT

CIVILIAN TEACHING STAFF OF RADIO SCHOOL

August

The collegiate section of the Student Army Training Corps was officially born on the morning of October 1. On this date the newly inducted men and candidates for instruction assembled in platoons, south of Palmer Hall. The commanding officer, Captain Rudd, and President Duniway spoke. On this day a general order assigned Lieutenants McKee, Walter, Bennett and Morris to "A" Section; Lieutenants Denman and Hays to the radio detachment of Section "B." Sergeant Little was placed in command of the first four squads of inducted men, who were billeted in the Kappa Sigma house. As rapidly as more were inducted, they were put in the other fraternity houses which had been taken over by the college as barracks.

Captain Rudd announced that his policy would strictly follow that of West Point. This method of instruction seeks to ingrain in the soldier: discipline, initiative and aggressiveness, physical hardihood and confidence in the rifle. A large part of the training was close order drill, which gives a soldier the habit of subconscious and instantaneous obedience. Guard mounts, parades and reviews were regularly held as soon as the men had learned the schools of the soldier, squad and company. These ceremonies, especially retreat, attracted large numbers of spectators. The officers laid great emphasis on smart observance of military courtesies. Through lectures and assignments in the military text books, the reasons for the salute and other forms of courtesy were driven home. Bayonet combat instilled the spirit of aggression. The instructors strove to create in each man a confidence in one's ability to kill an opponent and an intense desire to do so. The schedule gave systematic musketry instruction each week. Aiming and sighting drills, trigger squeeze exercises, rapid fire exercises were performed regularly. Each morning after mess there was thirty minutes of rigorous Canadian P. E. These "setting up" exercises varied with Butts manual and afternoon hikes increased the vigor of every man in the command.

Besides these strictly military forms of exercise, the men were encouraged to maintain the usual autumn football work. Altho hindered by the influenza epidemic, the Tiger team, for such it was regardless of the military regime, had a fairly successful season. With a few exceptions, the team was composed of first year men who made up in fighting spirit what they lacked in experience.

August

The first game with the Mines was lost, but the Tigers came back strong and defeated the State University in a very close game. The Denver eleven defeated the Tigers by a small score on Thanksgiving, largely due to the efforts of Anderson, an old time star who had played College football the year before. Briggs made the all-conference team and two of his team mates, Earl McTavish and Ian McKenzie were given honorable mention.

During October, Montgomery and Ticknor were emergency hospitals occupied by influenza patients. The hospitals were evacuated by the 25th and turned into barracks for "A" Section. Another event of the month was the appearance of a military band under the leadership of Sergeant Holt. This band did excellent service at the ceremonies. The commanding officer also transferred Perry and Logan to the Coast Artillery Officers Training Camp at Fortress Monroe, Va.

By November the new soldiers were rounding into shape. Coats wrinkled across the shoulders, heels clicked, and hands snapped at salute. Officers singled out the smartest soldiers at drill in expectancy of calls for officer candidates. The call came soon. Early in the month, the Captain sent Briggs, Taylor, Les McTavish, Parfet and Ed Allen to St. Louis for aviation examination. Seven more "A" Section men were transferred to Fortress Monroe to the Coast Artillery School. Major Teague of Camp Taylor visited the post and interviewed a number of applicants for transfer to the F. A. C. T. C. at Camp Taylor. The prospect of transfer to Officer Training Camps inspired every one with enthusiasm.

On November 11th, a stroke of Marshal Foch's pen ended the Great War. On this day the whole battalion marched through the city in celebration of the victory. The armistice did not stop the military work, however. P. E., close order drill, bayonet combat, hikes, lectures, and studies kept every man busy from reveille to taps.

Then came Thanksgiving Day which will be remembered by all the men for years after the more stirring events of the life here are forgotten. At noon 425 men sat down to a five course turkey dinner. White linen and handsome decorations transformed the long tables. The attractive menus contained an autograph greeting from the commanding officer. After dinner Captain Rudd read a telegram from the Adjutant General ordering demobilization by December 21st.

The Y. M. C. A. furnished amusement and recreation to the soldiers, Sunday morning sings in the Stadium, movies in Perkins, or talks in the billets relieved the dullness of strict quarantine. The "Y" Hut was a great success. Mr. Simons secretary of the post and Mr. Simmons of the town's Y. M. C. A. won the gratitude of every man here.

Early in December Lieutenant Taylor, the personell adjutant, returned from Kansas City with detailed instructions for demobilization. In pursuance of these the men of both sections were given their final examinations by Lieutenant Collins. The radio detachment was discharged and paid off on December 7th. After noon mess two days later, "A" Section was formed in front of Headquarters and the rules of demobilization were read, which prescribed what each man was entitled to receive on release. The men then passed through the Rotunda where they were given their final pay and their discharge from the Army of United States. After the last man had passed through, the company was formed to witness the presentation of gifts to the officers, the commanding officer, the company commander and both platoon officers were presented with handsome remembrances by the Section.

Doubtless, the Committee on Education and Military Training hastily conceived the idea of the national organization of the Students Army Training Corps and blundered in executing the details of the organization. Despite the mistakes in Washington, despite the fact that the commanding officer had to perfect every detail of his local unit, the Students Army Training Corps of Colorado College was a great success and a credit to the Institution.

THE BAND

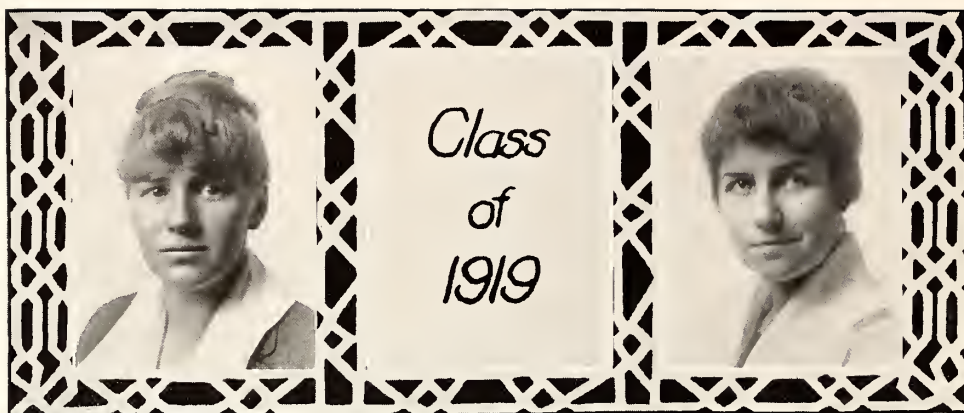

The Private

A private's life is full of grief
 From Sergeants he has no relief,
 Always worked from morn to night
 To put the "glim" in Freedom's Light.
 But when the war was o'er
 He got more insolent than before
 With haughty head and spiral "puts"
 Down the drag he nobly struts
 All the emblems of creation
 Flash from his sleeve his occupation.
 Chevrons green and gold and blue
 And star and stripes of every hue.
 A barber-pole on dress display—He is the hero of the day.

Athletic Summary

Athletics in the Rocky Mountain Conference never experienced a more unusual year than the past one. The older men of the college left for various branches of the service and for once the freshmen and sophomores could compete on intercollegiate teams, in fact, they composed the majority of the players. One thing to be noted was the lack of very many outstanding stars, although the few older men that did remain stood out over the rest. Rivalry was never keener, for it was up to the younger men to fight and prove that the high standards of their respective institutions would not be lowered, and that school honor and pride would not suffer for lack of defenders on the athletic field.

Thanks to Coach Rothgeb and a few old heads, athletics at Colorado College were not allowed to deteriorate. Every one at Colorado College appreciates the masterful way in which "Rothy" met all sorts of discouragements and setbacks, and he has won a place in the hearts of all true lovers of the sports.

While we did not win the championship in either of the spring sports, the Tigers were always in the running and the hardest scrappers in the conference. Inexperience was the chief handicap and it counted heavily against us. Both the track and baseball teams made excellent showings and proved that the yearlings were willing and able to deliver the goods.

The Tiger S. A. T. C. eleven, with a few exceptions, was composed entirely of freshmen. Most of the men had had considerable high school experience which made it less hard for Rothy. The influenza put in its appearance in time to disrupt practice considerable, so when the team lined up against the veteran Miner, it was with a feeling that they were under a severe handicap. Inexperience hindered in the first half and the Ore Diggers rolled up a large score. But in the second half the Tigers came back and held the Mines down, but could not overcome the lead against them. Denver University beat us Thanksgiving with Anderson in their line-up, but the Tigers fought well and were not overwhelmed. Boulder came down to the Tiger's lair the early part of December and were defeated by one point in a very exciting game. The defeat of Boulder left a pleasant taste in our mouths and other defeats were forgotten. Briggs, a first year man, made the All-Conference team, and Earl MacTavish and Ian MacKenzie, also freshmen, were accorded honorable mention. The team deserves a lot of credit for the plucky way in which it dug in and fought against so many odds. The following men made letters: Earl MacTavish, Charles Ball, Les MacTavish, John Jackson, Frank Briggs, Earle Whitehead, Elton Love, Franklin Bickmore, Hunter Strain, Foster Black, Ian MacKenzie, and Atwood Kneis.

Scores—

C. C. vs. Mines—6-48.

C. C. vs. D. U.—6-17.

C. C. vs. C. U.—8-7.

There was no game with the Aggies.

Track

Coach Rothgeb faced the same handicap in track as in baseball with no old letter men to form the nucleus of a team. But track is a form of athletics in which Rothgeb excels as a trainer and developer of green material. Rothy spots ability if there is the smallest amount present and knows how to make something out of it. Boulder beat the Tigers in the dual meet but not by a large score considering that she had several experienced track men. In the conference meet, C. C. finished a good third, Aggies winning and Boulder holding second place.

Baseball

Colorado College went into the baseball race with not a single letter man from the previous year. Coach Rothgeb was undaunted by the lack of older players and accomplished wonders with the material on hand. The men who came out, showed lots of fighting spirit and aggressiveness. As a result there was strenuous competition for all positions. The team was built around the battery, composed of the Hughes brothers, who had had considerable high school and amateur experience. The first four games were lost, three of them being on the home ground and the other in Denver. These games were lost because the breaks were against the Tigers and on account of weak hitting and errors at critical moments. But the team came back strong, beating Mines and Boulder on their home grounds. It was a very strong club when it disbanded. Its greatest weakness was lack of batting strength.

The scores were as follows:

C. C. vs D. U.—4—5	C. C. vs D. U.—2—7
C. C. vs Mines—2—5	C. C. vs Mines—4—2
C. C. vs C. U.—5—8	C. C. vs C. U.—2—2

Tennis Association

The Tennis Association is composed of those members of the student body who are interested in the sport. Under its direction the courts are maintained in good shape, tournaments are held and meets with other schools are arranged. Although there has been no opportunity for contests with outside schools this year, the interest in tennis has been very high and the number of students using the courts has been larger than usual.

The officers of the association are:

ANNE ELSTUN	Secretary
LANDELL BARTLETT	Treasurer

Holt, Whitehead, MacTavish,

Basketball

Colorado College finished second in the Colorado Conference Basketball race. Our team, composed mostly of first year men, was defeated only through the experience of our old rivals, Boulder. We beat Boulder on our own floor through a do-or-die comeback staged in the second half. But Boulder, on her home floor, overcame us largely because one of our best men was removed via the personal foul route, during the first period. We secured even breaks from the Miners and Denver University, winning from each, here, but being defeated on their floors. All things considered it was a very successful season and of which we should justifiably proud.

The scores were as follows:

C. C. vs. Teachers College—26-11.

C. C. vs. Mines—25-23.

C. C. vs. Aggies—23-15.

C. C. vs. Mines—19-32.

C. C. vs. Aggies—34-17.

C. C. vs. D. U.—25-29.

C. C. vs. C. U.—18-32.

Total C. C. points, 255.

Total opponents' points, 229.

Sigma Delta Psi

Founded at Indiana University, 1912.

Colorado College Chapter Installed, 1914.

Sigma Delta Psi is an honorary athletic fraternity for the promotion of a more general interest in college athletics. During the war the chapter at Colorado College has become nearly depleted, but plans have been materialized whereby the membership will be increased this spring. The requirements for entrance include twelve physical tests which cover a wide range of athletic ability.

TIGER DEBATE TEAM DEFEATED

Judges Favor Team Opp Owners Rai

By a vote of 2 to 1 the debate team of the University of Utah defeated the Tiger team at Perkins hall. The debate was heard here in the crowd interested in the debate and while disappointed backers were well pleased with the decision.

The question was that chosen for the series of triangular debates to be staged by C. C. with Denver University and Agricultural College in the series. "Resolved, That the railroads should own the railroads."

Otto Seymour, and Gold, were disadvantage of the contest. For the Utah a telegram in Professor Mot-

Kappa Sigs and Sigma Chis Open Interfraternity Baseball Today

Interfraternity baseball starts this afternoon with the contest between the Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi fraternities on the diamond at Monument Park at four o'clock. The game is called at four instead of later as was first expected in order to enable the men who are working on the fire department to participate. Each game of the whole series will probably be seven innings.

May Festival

May 11, 1918.

According to tradition, the day for the May Festival must be a rainy one. This year was no exception, so as a consequence, the fete was held in Cossitt gymnasium. Gladys Bell was in charge and deserves much credit for the entertainment. Dancing, singing and crowning of the May Queen were the features of the afternoon. A cafeteria supper was served in Cossitt dining room and was declared the "best ever."

The May Queen was selected in a new way. The two companies of the Colorado College battalion chose candidates and during the afternoon a competitive drill was held which was to decide the winner. Miss Katherine Clark was "A" company's choice and Miss Gladys Hale was "B" company's candidate. Capt. H. P. Barber picked "A" company as the best drilled and commended the men upon their excellent appearance and ability. Miss Clark was subsequently crowned Queen of the May and Miss Hale was maid of honor.

Class Scrap

Another ancient custom was smashed this year in the abolition of the annual flag rush, about the flag pole in front of Cutler, between the two lower classes. However, the two-year men were able to give their banquet at McRae's without a great deal of trouble.

These events generally take place during the first two weeks in October, but this year the S. A. T. C. substituted more serious business and the annual battle royal was staged in January. Under the leadership of Sweet, the sophomores sallied forth for their feed with faint hearts and trembling hands. Their banquet was undisturbed for a few minutes but soon the forces of Pond began their offensive.

For hours the conflict raged; several of the more prominent sophomores went on long and decidedly forced trips into the surrounding territory and it is said that brown liquids of one sort or another were used to decorate the physiognomies of the hard fighting second-year men.

The following morning a blue and white flag was suspended from the battle scarred tree in front of Perkins and again the yearling vainly endeavored to said that brown liquids of one sort or another were used to decorate the physiog-definite amount of epidermis from unsuspecting knuckles and shins, the fray was without any material losses.

All College Dances

This year there have been three All College Dances. Without exception they have proven to be the best social events of the season for they enable the entire college, students and faculty, to mingle together as no other function will permit. "Fussing" has been absolutely forbidden as in years before, the men and women of the institution have adhered to this rule absolutely with the result that the affairs have been most democratic.

All three of the dances have been held, for the first time, in Bemis hall, where the Commons room and dining room may be thrown together, making adequate space for the entire college. The first dance was given January 18, 1919, under the management of Robert Howes. Coming, as it did immediately after the Christmas vacation, it was really the first all college gathering of the year due to the confinement enforced by the S. A. T. C. and the influenza epidemic.

The second all college dance was on the night of May 3, 1919 soon after the commencement of the second semester. This affair was managed by the women of the college under the leadership of Mildred DeLongchamps. The third was given June 13, 1919, just before the final examinations. It was given for the benefit of the Dramatics Club, the Senior class and the Athletic association. Gladys Bell, Dorothy Sweet and Leah Gregg had charge of the dance.

Insignia Day

THE BOOK OF CHRONICLES OF THE TIGERS

CHAPTER XLIV

1. Now in those days there was a certain school named Colorado College. And many generations lived therein, and they were as the sands of the sea and could scarce be numbered for multitude.

2. And one day the leader of this tribe, Gregg, surnamed Leah, summoned her followers together, and they took counsel together saying, "Behold we are the salt of the earth! Yet now hath our generation tarried long in this land, and have seen victory. Therefore let us decree a celebration, showing that we are learned.

3. So the children of '19 came up into the temple of Perkins. And each child wore a black gown and mourned that he would leave Colorado.

4. And behold, a great multitude gathered to see the celebration. And they came from the south and from the north and from uttermost parts of the world.

5. And the followers of Eppich, surnamed Margaret, came likewise unto Perkins that day. And behold, at every ten cubits length stood a follower of Margaret, and held aloft flowers, and formed an arch.

6. And the tribe of Gregg marched under this arch, and took each his seat.

7. And the ruler of the nation, named Duniway, said unto the cohorts of Gregg, "Behold, ye shall do great deeds, and the world shall be filled with thy praises."

8. And then, full sorry, the tribe of Gregg left the temple of Perkins, and saith, "History shall repeat itself. This day shall be called Insignia Day. And each tribe, when it attaineth victory, shall celebrate this ceremony."

9. And so it is done even unto this day.

Colonial Ball

Godde's blessing on our noble Lande!
 Give care, goode people alle;
 A statelv balle I have to tell
 At Bemis did befall.

On ye fourteenth daye of February, a goodlye companye of ladyes and brave gentlemen did assemble to do honour to ye father of our country. Promptly at six o'clock Mistress Churchill led ye companye into dinner. All tables were decorated to represent note-worthy colonial scenes. After dinner, Mistress Churchill and Master C. Hibbs led ye grande march. Soone all ye room was awchirl with old-fashioned people, dancing manye olde and new dances. Members of ye classe of '21 soone danced a statelv minuet. Even ye unseen critics on ye outside report it a wondrous dance.

All College Picnic

Seven Falls

February 22, 1919

Two novel features distinguished this year's All College picnic from any of those held in the past; the affair was staged by the sophomore class and was held in South Cheyenne Canon near Seven Falls, instead of the Garden of the Gods, where the Tigers have romped on this day in the past. Regardless of snow and cold, the affair was a huge success in every way.

The bread-line received peanut-butter sandwiches, pimento cheese, potato chips, hot dog sandwiches, pickles pie and coffee in abundance. Everybody, including the faculty indulged in a good old time snow fight which aroused the proper appetite for the eats which followed soon after. The president of the sophomore class, Ben Sweet and Raymond Purington, managed the affair.

The U. M. C. A. Circus

Taking into consideration every feature of a Barnum and Bailey reproduction, the circus was a success. From the minute the ring master cracked his whip to get the clowns and band men into formation for the parade until the last performer had left the scene of action to attend the minstrel show, everything was humming.

Cinderella was there with her royal chariot drawn by six prancing steeds, and the fairy tale was reacted from start to finish in the sawdust ring with modern settings.

The Junior girls arranged in Eskimo garb presented a clever little stunt in which they revealed to the spectators many of the wonders of life in the North Pole region.

Chapel exercises, inspection, gym, classes and tossing received their full share in the performances of the day. The Freshmen town girls presented a clown dance which was splendidly worked out and cleverly costumed.

Kappa Beta Phi

Kappa Beta Phi is the original bone-head society of Colorado College. Its personell is the most select of any organization in the institution. To it, only belong those members of the student body who show decided tendencies to "Nitting" and are willing to spend the time and effort to conscientiously waste time. Needless to say, only the leaders of the social life and student body activities are eligible to the association and places on the membership are highly prized.

Those fortunate enough to escape Phi Beta Kappa, its dearest enemy, this year, were treated to a public initiation during the regular chapel hour. Only one of the prospective members failed to pass the examination, and that person left school soon afterwards.

The lucky initiates were John Jackson, Margaret Eppich, John Arms, Joe Wright, Miriam Scribner, Robert Howes, Charles Freeman, Edmund Flynn, Samuel Knowles, Edgar Garvey, Van Kirk Buchanan, Landell Bartlett and Hugh Flaherty.

Piker's Day

The counterpart of Insignia Day, is Piker's Day. Upon the festive date, the seniors celebrate their arriving freedom by cutting all classes and spending the day in regions unkown. This year, the wherabouts of the serious minded was never discovered. Their early departure was unheralded and bespoke considerable energy upon their part. It is rumored that a car load of illy-clad men and women left Murray's corner at a very early hour but nothing definitely is known.

The juniors and sophomores displayed their interest in the occasion by a most solemn and inspiring ceremony. Clad in kimonas and bathrobes, with towels wrapped about their noble brows, the juniors marched to their places in the senior section under an archway of brooms and mop sticks garnished with onions, supported by their favorite enemies—the sophomores. Prof. McMurtry delivered the address of the morning, dealing largely with the budding futures displayed by the achievements of the chamber-maids and Turkish farmers sitting before him.

High School Day

Friday, June 6, the College entertained the High school students and the townspeople of Colorado Springs. The plan originated in the student body and was carried out by the students, with the hearty support and co-operation of the administration and faculty.

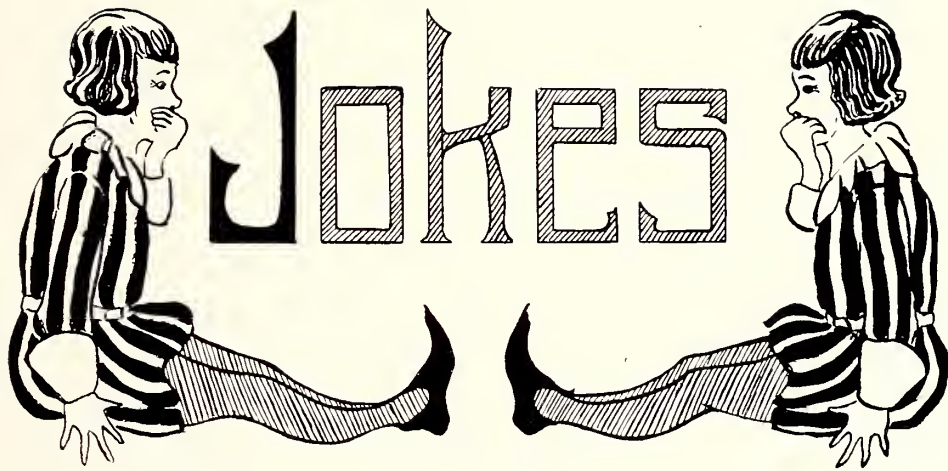

Upon that day the laboratories and class rooms of the College were opened to the public and many took advantage of the opportunity to witness the inside of an institution of this kind. The museum and art exhibits also attracted a great deal of interest.

In the afternoon a picked team of College men played and won a baseball game with a team from the City league. After the baseball fiesta the crowd attended the senior play given in Cogswell theatre. The visitors of the college to the number of two-hundred attended the play free of charge.

At 6:30 the men of the High school senior class were given a banquet in Cossitt Hall with President Duniway, Principal Brown of the Colorado Springs High School, Lloyd Shaw and other prominent men as speakers. Simultaneous with this banquet the women of the High school were entertained at a dinner in Bemis followed by a sing and general get-together.

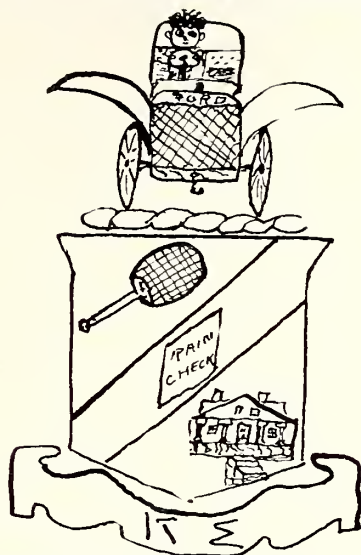

After the banquet a short smoker was held in the Gym with a few bouts, a wrestling match and an exhibition stunt on the flying rings. The men then formed a huge snake dance, invaded the Quad and invited the girls to a dance in Cossitt gym.

The affair was a success from start to finish. Altho absolutely different from the High school days which have been held in the past, it created a fine feeling between the local High school and the College and was well worth while.

THE ANNUAL OF BETA OMEGA SIGMA TO THE CADUSEUS

June 1, 1919

DEAR BROTHER EDITOR:

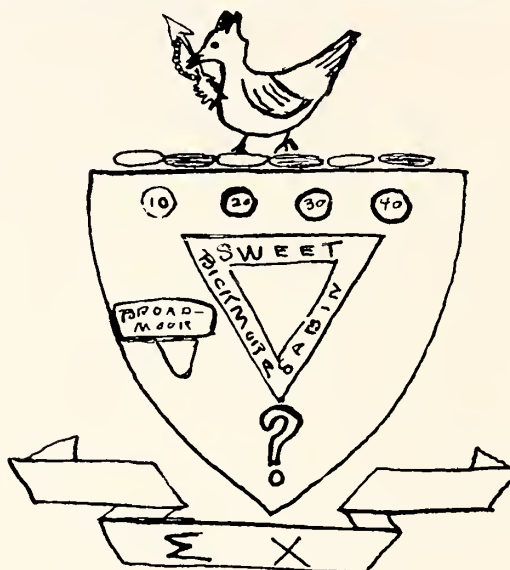

We have just discovered a brand new scheme for pledging men which eliminates all the fuss and feathers of rushing week and still brings ample results. By placing a brass canon on the front porch, filling it to the muzzle with black powder and pledge pins, firing it at the exact hour of midnight, we always find the next morning, enough men to whom pledge pins have adhered to sufficiently swell the ranks of the chapter.

Among the various activities in which we are represented, athletics is our weakest point. During the first few days of the track season we had a man in a suit but he found that the work interfered with his dancing and was forced to sacrifice his ambitions. Socially, we have fared a trifle better. From past experience, the truth of the adage about the early bird has been impressed upon us and we find that one good way of insuring keen dates, is to make them the year before.

Among our number is the Supreme Grand Arch-Hound of the Nit association, who is doing much to encourage the scholastic attainments of the chapter. As a result, our five-hundred squad is admittedly the cleverest on the campus. In academic work we have a long record behind us which is spectacular for its uniformity. For several years, none of the other groups in college have challenged our claim to last place. But this summer there is a rumor afloat that two of the brothers are spending several hours a week in study and we feel assured of our ability to maintain our former standing with possibly a better average than before.

Yours for more members,

ANGELO SCOTT

The Weekly Epistle of Beta Samma Chapter of Sigma Chi to The Pamphlet.
June 1, 1919

DEAR BROTHERS IN SIGMA CHI:

We haven't written as often as we should have because we haven't had anything in particular to write about. We have conducted ourselves in a manner wholly worthy of commendation and as we have not made ourselves conspicuous on the campus there is nothing for which anyone can blame us. All of our members are perfectly harmless. Our handsome lady killers, Parfet and Bray, were unexpectedly called home, thus rendering them no longer dangerous to the conservative element in the fraternity.

We were very proud of all the boys' feature acts on the Glee Club. Boos did especially well and Chase in his usual modest manner captivated the audience. Pi Phi is pulling for us in the same good way they used to; and even tho we can't get the college girls to come to our dances, we stand in with the high school dames.

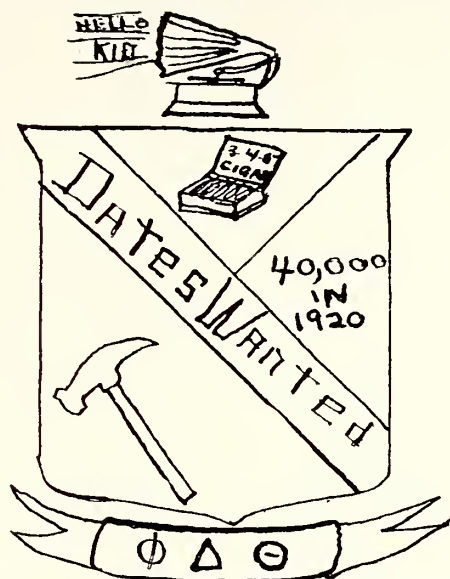

By means of an agreement with Baum's and Bemis we have found it possible to keep the brothers warm during the winter evenings without a fire in the furnace. This scheme is especially practical and we wish to recommend it to the other chapters, besides being economical, it discourages all loafing about the house.

Not having pretended to be enthusiastic students, scholarship is giving us as little worry as usual. This is especially fortunate this year since the greater part of our time is taken up in planning the politics of the sophomore class.

Dewey Darling has just been initiated, thus adding more weight to the fraternity.

Yours for a warm house,

DART WANTLAND.

The Annual Letter of Beta Chapter of Phi Delta Theta to The Chief High Booster.

DEAR BROTHERS IN BOND:

It is with utmost sorrow that we pen this epistle, yet as we write there comes a vision of future greatness through the darkness. In the beginning most of our members chose to remain sub-rosa. But in later years a spirit of greater courage has become manifest and at present almost any member will admit that he is a Phi Delt—provided, of course, that he is sufficiently urged.

We realize the profound necessity of economy and are proud to report that the new members are taking the lead in their noble efforts to keep down the laundry bill. For instance, not long ago four of them made an evening call at Bemis and only one stopped to change from his daily attire of a flannel shirt and red sweater to our formal dress of false bosom and strung cuffs, supplemented with a civilian coat. The girls always appreciate these little courtesies and as a result commended the fellows upon their neat, informal appearance.

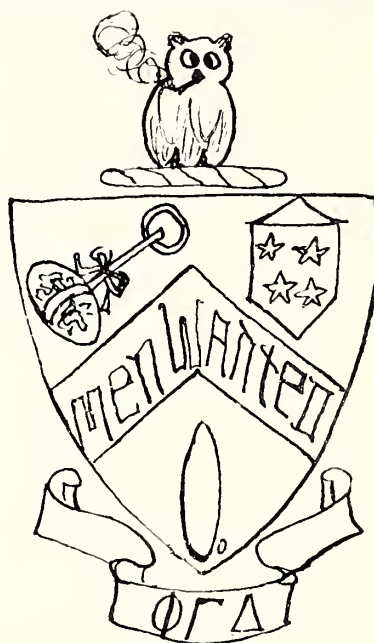

Our democratic spirit, as evidenced by our extreme popularity among the other groups on the campus, is much to be commended. We take the lead as usual, in all student activities—from the Pep committee down.

In baseball we have things coming our way, but our specialty was basketball, having practically the entire second team, this year, composed largely of freshmen. Of course, this letter would not be complete without mentioning "Ber." He is not quite the only senior man in college this year.

Our luck in social events has not been so noticeable during the past season. While, of course, we appreciate that all the nicer girls in college would rather come to our functions, they have been impeded by former engagements (which, by the way, they were always anxious to break) on various occasions. With the result that our date list has not been so spectacular as might have been desired.

Yours for more members,

PHIL WILKIN.

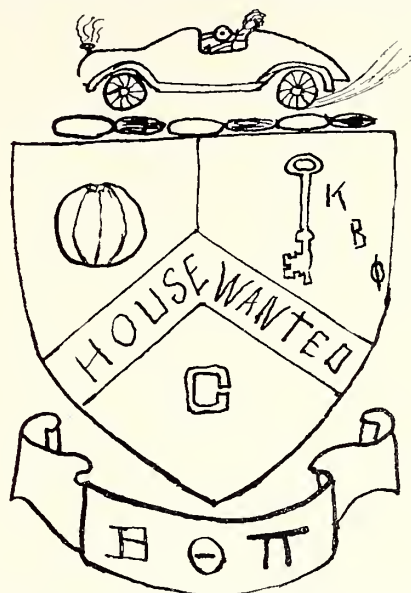

The Monthly Letter of Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta to the "Phi Gamma Delta."
DEAR BROTHER PHI GAMs:

To begin with, we have several pledges this year, so far only a few of them have returned their pledge pins. We often gather around our fire place recalling past glories won by our alumnae, altho our reveries are sometimes interrupted by the strains of a strange steel guitar and the weird moaning of a saxaphone.

We have a man in each student activity and he has won popularity, for us, among the women by allowing them to carry his books. Among our members is a veritable Vulcan, in fact, he is so strong that he can't resist beating up the male members of the college whenever he meets them, regardless of place or people. We are now going through a campaign to inculcate refinement among the brothers. At present two of them are especially enthusiastic; one of them reads the Post and bathes, the other reads the Post.

As to scholarship, w feel confident that we are improving. We are practically assured of cellar place this year and may do even better if a few more of the brothers drop school. Your advice has been followed and the new men have been urged not to attend too carefully to Work. Socially we rank among the foremost; our parties, this year, have been very exclusive. Except when occasional alumnae and friends drop in to swell our numbers, we have tried not to have more than five or six of the brothers present, at the house, on fraternity nights. Since the Phi Gam Queen left, we have failed to find anyone to take her place, but we can still get a few nice girls to attend our functions.

Yours fraternally, ED GARVEY.

The Daily of Gamma Chapter of Beta Theta Pi to One of the too many other Chapters in Colorado.

DEAR BROTHER EDITOR:

Contrary to our custom in the past, we are brazenly hiking into the social limelight and from the chrysalis of the athletic scholar we are bursting forth as dancing butterflies. Why! almost all our members can dance this year. And the girls really enjoy the Beta parties. We even put on a serenade at the halls one evening, and all the girls spoke to us the next day.

Our house, altho inadequate to our new role in life, is a source of great economy; a condition which brings joy to the heart of a Beta. This saving coupled with the annual income from the Nugget sales, should warrant our building an annex within the next decade or so. The building is now equipped with one sleeping porch, which, due to our novel arrangement of the beds in tiers, will accomodate half the chapter; this method of condensing the sleeping apparatus is highly desirable since it enables each man to act as his own maid and smooth out his own blankets.

We have not yet constructed a new mantel piece for our third scholarship cup. It was our earnest desire that the offering of the trophy be postponed until a time when our social ambitions would not be of such prime importance in our lives. There is one matter which should be brought up in our next convention regarding a certain Beta professor who is guilty of gross negligence of true fraternal spirit because he unscrupulously flunks those of us who do not meet his super-standards.

Yours in the primrose path,
FRANK SEELEY

The Aluminum Letter of Alpha Sigma Epsilon to Its Alumnus.

June 1, 1919

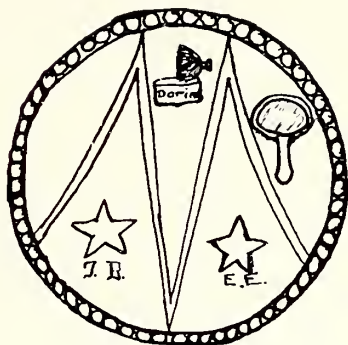

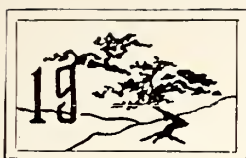

DEAR BROTHER:

In celebrating our first birthday we are proud to report that we have passed the baby food stage and are starting to creep towards our goal of becoming a national. We have received bids from several of the prominent fraternities but realize the need of discrimination and are holding off for lack of finances. In the meantime we have been cultivating the Greek fraternity attitude; one of the younger members has been unusually successful, since he is commonly known by the name of a famous Greek God.

We have one man who is well known, especially for his ties and fine clothes. We also have a brother on the baseball team. He plays substitute on the second team and has held down his place in several innings of practice games. Socially we are still maintaining our former place. Having given several functions we find that our standing on the campus has not suffered to any appreciable extent.

With fond hopes for the future, I remain yours,

CARROL WILLIAMS.

The Annual Letter of the C. C. Minerva to the Alumni Journal.

June 1, 1919.

DEAR MINERVITES:

We are exceedingly glad to be able to write a favorable letter this year. Everything has come our way, we got all but two of the girls we wanted and didn't have to stretch very many rules, either, to make them eligible.

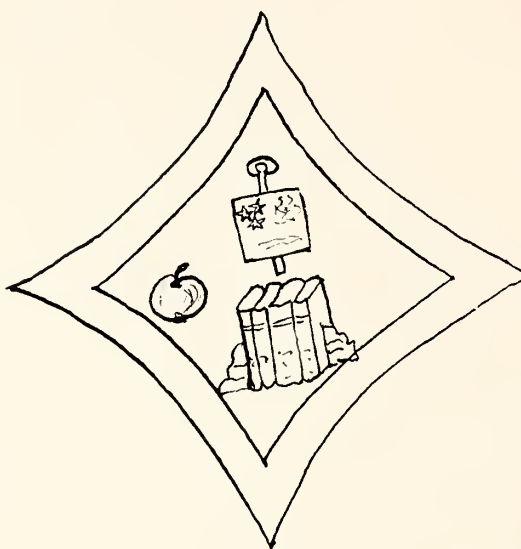

We thought Annis would be an exceptionally good member, because, besides being popular with the men, she has a car and taxies are expensive, so every car in the society is a help.

The function surely made a hit. The men were all dolled up in their soup and fish, and all the girls, by borrowing around, managed to gather up a complete evening costume apiece. Every one admits we had the best men in school on our party and since it was our first appearance with most of them, we tried hard to make a good impression.

We took Amanda for her journalistic ability. We do like to see our names in print.

Yours for service,

EMMIE LOU.

Semi-Annual Letter of Contemporary to Its Favorite Alumnus.

June 1, 1919.

DEAREST ANNA MAUD:

There isn't much to write in the letter this time, but I shall endeavor to give you the latest dope concerning us in a few short words.

Oh, our pledges for this year, well, we bid the ones we wanted all right, but the feeling did not seem to be mutual.

Since you left, Anna, we don't seem to be able to pull very many Beta bids, and we've lost a Phi Delt pin or two. Now the only key to the situation is Phi Bet as far as I can see.

We have a stand in with the Dean this year, tho Minerva claims the honor. Fer want of a substitute, our lessons claim our undivided attention.

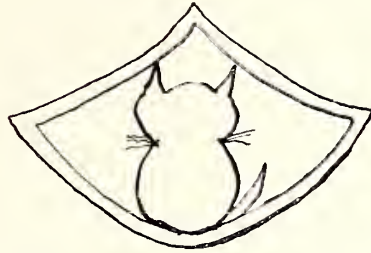

Well, that is all this time. Come to see us soon, Anna.

Yours in the sisterhood,

ELIZABETH

Auguet

The Weekly of Hypatia to Their Newspaper.

June 1, 1919.

DEAR SISTERS;

Our report this week isn't going to be any more favorable than the last, we are very sorry to say. We have to admit that the other societies have the best girls this year. We have only three pledges, but we believe in being conservative.

Our function, this spring, is more or less of a question. So few of the girls are indebted to men that we may have to postpone the affair.

We are exceptionally well represented in student activities, however. We have strong members in the Girls' Glee Club, on student government, the Town Girls' Board and Vesper Choir.

We are sacrificing all social engagements in our noble efforts to win first place in scholarship. Very few girls even consider attending the fraternity dances.

Yours for grades,

MARGARET.

The Nits are not represented by a picture in this Nugget. But, Nits, don't be troubled by this seeming lack of attention. We love you in spite of this omission.

A certain man by the name of Palmer stood by the wayside. He seemed to be in a distracted mood. A friend approached him. "What ails you, Don?" Said Don: "My head is running around in a zirkle and my tho'ts are all of her."

Breity stood with Belzebub watching the flames of Hades' eternal fires. Belzebub muttered, "What in hell would you like to do?" Breity cried eagerly, "Let me be your advertising agent." "If you don't toot your own horn, nobody will" Belzebub smiled. "I've been looking for a guy like you for a hell of a while. You're hired. Hell will look on you as a good aquisition."

It is said that the last four words of T. G. Holt before he died were: "It Pays to Advertise."

It isn't so popular to get engaged as it was a year ago. The men are holding onto their pins with a bull-dog grip. The romance of love and war does not hold sway now.

It is the sincere hope of the Fusser's Union No, 67, that the region south of the Mason-Dixon line will furnish more of the same kind of Southern product as graced the Campus this year.

The Carnival was a great success in every way. Quite a lot of money was made. Even the most hard-shelled Crabb opened up his Palm freely, tanalized by the sight of the attraction of Breitweiser and the Egyptian Cigarette ad, "La Princesse Melacharino." Quoth the Crabb, "I Lovitt and I open my Arms to you."

Bemis Hall and Prof. Bemis seem to have gotten together at the same college. But it is said that they are not on speaking terms. Can this be?

"How to imbibe a Coca Cola in the most approved way," by Hugh Frances Flaherty and John Burrington Jackson: with a preface by Miss Hortense Scott. The publishers are Murrays'.

Laking parties and long distance walks seem almost to have gone out of style.

The librarians seem to be quite worried by talking in the library. Whispered the librarian in my ear, "The Jungle is a fine place to talk things over." I agreed humbly. "You are right. Never will I darken your doors again."

A movie show will be put on every night in Cogswell theater. Only the best pictures will be shown. A charge of 10 cents plus one cent war tax will be asked. The opening night will be on a day not far in the future.

Portraits "Luxembourg" Please

The program for the first night will include Walter Flegal and Dorothy Azpell, the well known stars, in "A Romance of College Life," and John Cannon in a comedy. Also Hi Weller has consented to an exhibition dance. As the old saying goes, "Come one, come all, to Bemis Hall.

MORE OF THE SAME.

Now doesn't this sound familiar and sort of ring in your ears: "A Crockett Dial basked in the sun. No, Thad, that is not the name of a new kind of sun dial."

Winning in the world of business

¶ The secret of much of the success in life is to look the part—in dress and actions.

¶ A man can't look the part unless he is dressed for it. Good Clothes first. Then a good dentist, personal cleanliness, clean habits to fit in.

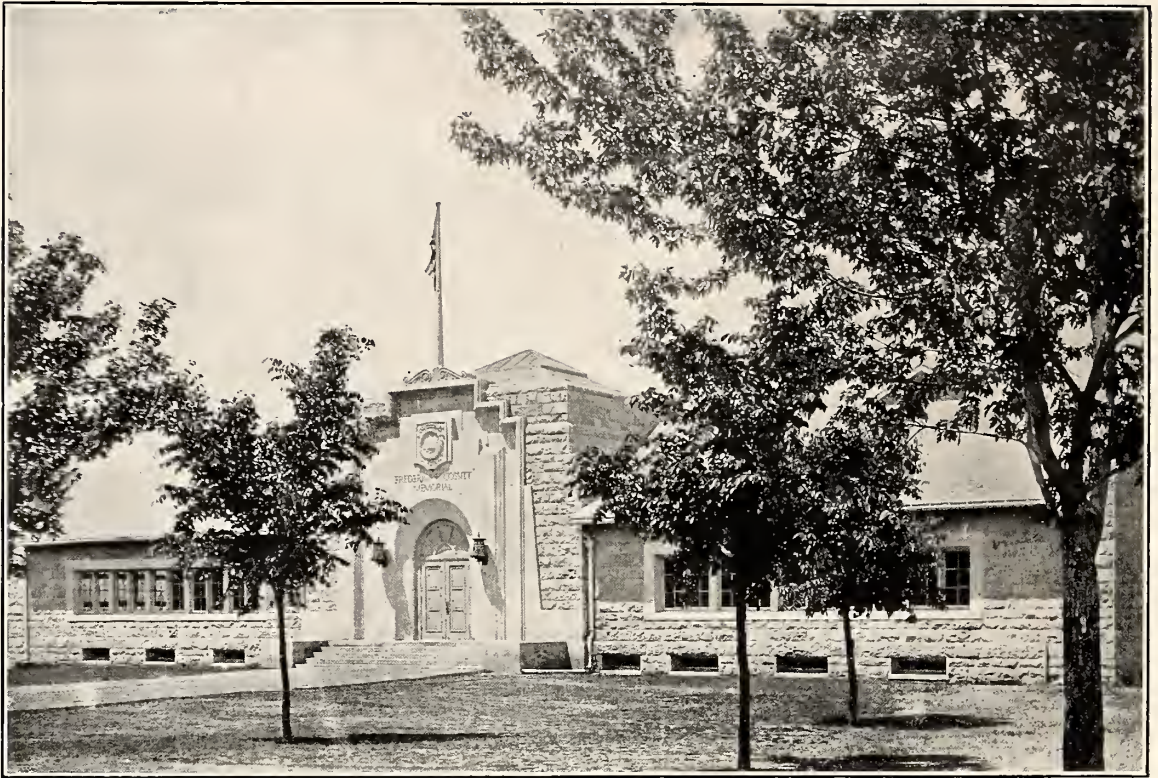

¶ In school or in business we are keeping men dressed as they should be.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Phi Gamma Delta announces to the readers of its Handbill, commonly known as "The Colorado College Tiger," that there will be no issue on March 32nd. The management have dance dates on that evening.

Original Jazz orchestra, piano, violins, drum and Jews harp. Can be secured by calling 2073 and asking for Howes. This superb orchestra is recommended for jitney dances, as it has the endurance of a camel.

For entertaining purposes our quartete has not equal. The Fountain newspaper of Fountain, Fountain Sun and Star, says: "This quartet has all the essentials of a good quartet but harmony." Can be hired on short notice by calling at 1117 North Nevada and asking for Manager Chase.

And then we learn from Ernest Kurie that Richard the Second signed a "Peaty of Treace."
